

Greetings

We hope you and your families enjoyed rest, fellowship, and time together over the 4th of July weekend. We are currently working with many families who are beginning their homeschool journey with Portals. If you know any families who are currently considering their education options for the upcoming school year, we are here and happy to help.

-Your Portals Team

Professional Development

We heard from you that the majority of families registered with Portals for this upcoming school year prefer to attend professional development training online. In response to this, we will be pre-recording each of the workshops and publishing them online as a series of classes for you to attend when it best fits your schedule. We believe it is important for our team to have the opportunity to connect with you and answer any questions you may have as we head into the school year. In order to provide this opportunity, we will be scheduling multiple live sessions throughout the month of August where our team will share an update on the start of the school year and be available to answer your questions.

NEW: Video Series

An new series of videos has been created to provide an in depth look at the Portals mission and philosophy of learning. Check out our YouTube page to learn more. Feel free to share with anyone you know that may be interested in learning more about Portals.

Book Lists Available

Families and schools who have registered with Portals for the 2023-2024 school year will receive an email with a copy of the book list for the upcoming school year. This book list will contain ISBN numbers and links to help you find low-cost resources to support your student's education.
